Issue My civics project is based on my National History Day project. My partners and I did it on the civil rights movement about Joan Browning (a civil rights activist in the 1960s). One of our main goals was to try and end a serious problem we have today in many, many schools and that is bullying.

Project Description The things we did to try and get bullying out of schools was putting quotes in our skit that we did, talking to many of our teachers and classmates, and last, telling others what they can do to have it eliminated from the human mind.

Project Outcome My project has moved a lot of many people and has gotten me to very many extraordinary places.
